

Access to Justice for Children Project implemented by WODWICHEE, Hailakandi in partnership with Kailash Satyarthi Children's Foundation is working towards promoting and protecting the rights of the children. It basically aims at creating a safe and friendly environment for the children. The primary objectives of this project is to make 70 villages of Hailakandi district free from child marriage, child sexual abuse, child trafficking and child labouring in it's first phase(first in the district, second overall).

It seeks to ensure that any child facing any such issues is supported throughout the legal process and receive appropriate rehabilitation in the form of counselling, compensation or in any other form.

The project also advocates for policy changes and social movement for ensuring the rights of children. It seeks to combat the above mentioned social issues through awareness campaigns, sensitisation programmes, social media campaign and so on.
